WHAT A WAY TO LIGHT A SHOW!

HOW THE LIGHTING SYSTEM AT THE NEW SANTA FE OPERA MEETS THE DEMANDING REQUIREMENTS OF A PROFESSIONAL REPERTORY THEATRE

For the truly creative director, the major limitation in lighting a show has always been the equipment. It wasn't that there weren't enough lighting instruments or control in the theatre . . . it was that they couldn't do enough fast enough.

But the Kliegl Bros. lighting system in the new Santa Fe Opera House has changed all that.

A total of 313 stage lighting circuits are connected at Kliegl's unique SAFPATCH cross-connect panel to the outputs of 100 SCR Dimmers.[®] The dimmers incorporate an automatic current sensing network, preventing equipment damage from accidental overloads.

The control system allows five scenes to be preset — and four sub-masters to control lighting changes within each of the five scenes. Two independent group masters, a split fader, "pile-on" capability, non-dim switching, and a complete set of manual dimmer controls further extend the designer's control capabilities.

Lighting instruments in the new theatre all use the long life tungsten halogen lamps. The designer has at his command 20 motorized four-color changer circuits, which can be preset for five programmed changes by the control operator.

Kliegl Bros. is preparing a booklet describing the Santa Fe Opera system more fully than is possible in this space. Please write or call Kliegl Bros. (Att: Dr. Joel Rubin, Vice-Pres.) for your free advance copy.

Translated by Rolf Fjelde

"If Mr. Fjelde goes on to translate the collected plays of Ibsen, he may well be able to provide the outstanding English-language Ibsen of this century."

ERIC BENTLEY
Columbia University

"Rolf Fjelde's translations are clean, careful and, moreover, refreshingly natural . . . exactly what is needed to bring Ibsen directly to the modern theater audience."

FRANCIS FERGUSON
Rutgers University

"At last Rolf Fjelde is giving us the translations . . . our theater has needed for so long. With both student and professional actors, I have found his Ibsen texts marvelously playable."

JOHN HOUSEMAN
Juilliard-Lincoln Center

IN VERSE: Peer Gynt*

"A first-rate translation of the play, by far the best I have ever seen."

ROBERT W. CORRIGAN
Calif. Inst. of the Arts

IN PROSE: A Doll House, The Wild Duck, Hedda Gabler, The Master Builder, Forthcoming: Ghosts, Enemy of the People, Lady from the Sea, John Gabriel Borkman*

"Rolf Fjelde's translations bring us more of Ibsen's poetry than any others I know. For American readers and viewers they offer the best combination of fidelity and felicity."

CONSOLE YOURSELF WITH COMPONENTS

A New Modular Concept in Lighting
Control Systems by SKIRPAN ELECTRONICS

Now, for the first time, a truly custom, expandable, lighting control system with any quantity of control channels, masters, presets and dimmers can be constructed economically and quickly with Skirpan modular relay rack components and open-stock standard enclosures.

Skirpan's new 60-page color catalog describes this breakthrough in system design and presents many new products for lighting control — including architectural dimmers, pushbutton controls, cycle control amplifiers, frequency sensitive programmers and projector dissolve systems — all solid state — and an expanded line of console components. More than that . . . it is a comprehensive text on lighting control theory and practice.

THE PERSECUTION AND ASSASSINATION
OF JEAN-PAUL

AS PERFORMED BY
THE INMATES OF
THE ASYLUM OF CHARENTON
UNDER THE DIRECTION OF
THE MARQUIS DE

MARAT · SADE

English version by Geoffrey Skelton

Verse adaption by Adrian Mitchell

"Total theatre" is perhaps the most appropriate expression critics have used to describe this electrifying theatrical event. The Royal Shakespeare Company played to capacity houses right up to the conclusion of the smash Broadway run. One reason suggested for the limiting of the Broadway presentation was that even the highly disciplined Royal Shakespeare Company could not continue for more than a season with the emotional intensity of this extraordinary work, which incidentally has won almost every important critical award both here and in Europe.

The play is designed for production on a nearly bare stage by a large and flexible cast. The Marquis de Sade when an inmate of the Asylum of Charenton is known to have written and staged plays that were performed by fellow inmates. With this point of departure Peter Weiss has created what is probably the most powerful and exciting play of the century. We invite you to embark on a daring theatrical adventure. We invite you to accept the challenge and opportunity of this great new play.

A VIEW FROM THE BOX OFFICE

Theater in America

The Impact of Economic Forces, 1870-1967

By JACK POGGI. In an effort to identify the malaise which has long afflicted the American theater, the author traces two closely related trends: centralization of production in New York City, and the marked decline in theatrical activity since the 1920's. While outlining the causal relationship between economic vitality and artistic vitality, Mr. Poggi presents for the first time a detailed history of the Off-Broadway and Off Off-Broadway theaters, and describes the development, decline, and resurgence of the resident-theater movement. As for playwrights, the author focuses on the economic factors that influence what is written and, most important, what is produced. 368 pages, 6 graphs. $9.50

FRENCH LAUGHTER—AMERICAN STYLE

Seven Comedies by Marivaux

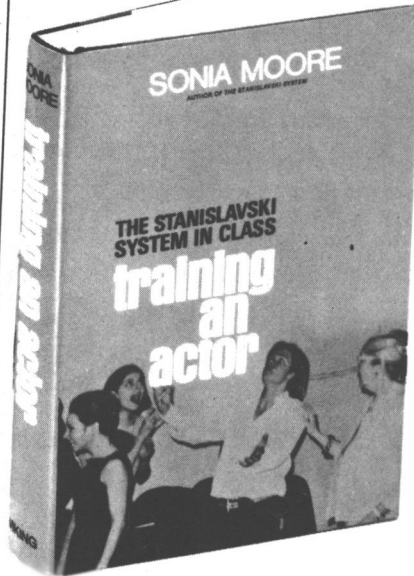

Selected by OSCAR MANDEL. English versions by OSCAR and ADRIENNE S. MANDEL. Although regularly performed by the Comédie Française, Marivaux's sprightly 18th-century comedies are relatively unknown in America. Professional and amateur acting groups alike may now share the grace, charm, and biting wit of the French originals, here presented in idiomatic, eminently stageworthy translations.

"The Mandels have not only performed a service to scholarship but have provided delightful reading for many non-scholars — and, it will also prove, delightful acting for many players. They are to be cordially congratulated."—ERIC BENTLEY

by SONIA MOORE

author of The Stanislavski System

Invaluable to both actor and teacher, this book, based on tape recordings made during Mrs. Moore's classes, shows how to solve the problems that actors face in creating a character. Drawing on the latest research in Russia, this is the only book to bring the Stanislavski System up to date in America, and to clarify many prevalent misunderstandings about the System. "Should be a must for actors and teachers alike."

THE HAWK

An Improvisational Play

by

MURRAY MEDNICK

and

photographs by
RALPH GIBSON

Under the sponsorship of a foundation-funded arts project in New York's lower East Side, a writer, a director, and eight actors took up residence in a rented farmhouse in Pennsylvania. Here, they undertook to develop, from a bare scenario, a form of intensive and equal collaboration through which new plays might be created.

This play, a stark, nihilistic commentary on inevitabilities, is the first result of their work. It was produced both off and off-off Broadway in the past season with unusual critical acclaim. Photographs by Ralph Gibson—of the play in performance and of fantasies created by the play—appear throughout the book. Text and photographic layout are designed by Quentin Fiore.

ADOLPHE APPIA, PROPHET OF THE MODERN THEATRE

A Profile by Walther R. Volbach

In the complex art of theatrical design and production, the first decades of this century saw no more original innovator than Adolphe Appia. His ideas and theories were revolutionary and are still clearly evident today. Yet the details of his work and the extent of his influence have never been completely recorded. This biography—concentrating on Appia's aesthetic ideas, writings, and professional accomplishments—now fills that gap. One comes to know a man of genius who was a seminal force in the history of the theatre and a profound human being.

In the preparation of this study Mr. Volbach had the cooperation of the Adolphe Appia Foundation of Geneva, many of Appia's relatives, and such disciples as Jean Mercier and Oskar Waelterlin. 264 pages. With 48 illustrations, notes, bibliography, and index. $12.50

O'Neill's Scenic Images

TIMO TIUSANEN

Eugene O'Neill's expert knowledge of the workings of the stage, evidenced by his intricate, detailed stage directions, has frequently been praised but never analyzed in depth. This book describes the playwright's relation to the medium of his art—the stage. The legitimacy of Mr. Tiusanen's unique scenic approach is established with the help of three carefully defined special concepts: scenic means of expression, scenic unit, and scenic image. O'Neill's forty-six published and three unpublished plays are discussed from this scenic point of view, and the results achieved are related to other thematic, psychological, and sociological interpretations. $10.00

Enter Foot and Horse A History of Hippodrama in England and France

by A. H. Saxon

This lively survey traces the development of one of the oddest and most colorful forms of entertainment in theatre history. Hippodramatic productions — the spectacular presentation of plays in which animals, especially horses, were given definite parts, sometimes leading actions — flourished in England and France throughout the first half of the nineteenth century. Detailed descriptions of many of the lavish productions are supplemented by delightful illustrations, most never before published. $6.75

Modern French Theatre From Giraudoux to Genet

by Jacques Guicharnaud

In this thoroughly revised and enlarged edition of a work hailed by George Freedley as "definitely the best study of French Theatre published in America since . . . World War II," the analyses of Anouilh, Ionesco, Beckett, and Genet have been expanded to cover their important plays since 1961. Entirely new chapters are devoted to the intimate theatre of phantasy, and to the committed epic theatre. cloth $8.50; paper $2.45
