Landscapes of a Distant Mother

SAID

Translated by Kenneth F. Northcott

"One of the best books I have read in recent years. Deceptively simple and poignant without being sentimental, Landscapes of a Distant Mother is not just another narrative about exile. It is above all about the loss of an illusion—the startling discovery that home is not, and perhaps never was, a home."

—Azar Nafisi, author of Reading Lolita in Tehran

Cloth $20.00

The End

Hamburg 1943

HANS ERICH NOSSACK

Translated and with a Foreword by Joel Agee
With photographs by Erich Andres

"Nossack was the only writer of the time to try recording what he actually saw as plainly as possible," writes W. G. Sebald about this memoir of the firebombing of Hamburg in 1943. Nossack watched the destruction of his city—in the first firestorm achieved by Allied bombers—from across the Elbe River. Only three months after the event, he completed The End, one of the most remarkable literary responses to the phenomenon of total destruction.

Cloth $20.00

The Family Silver

A Memoir of Depression and Inheritance

SHARON O'BRIEN

"A rewarding and thought-provoking take. . . . Sigmund Freud once remarked that the goal of psychotherapy was to replace neurotic misery with common human unhappiness. . . . O'Brien follows Freud's dictum in this grand reclamation project of rescuing from her family's past the forgotten, the uncomfortable, the fearsome and the silent."—Thomas McGonigle, Los Angeles Times

Cloth $27.50

Another Way Home

The Tangled Roots of Race in One Chicago Family

RONNE HARTFIELD

"A major accomplishment of Another Way Home is to demonstrate how a woman of mixed race could live a life that does not conform to all of the stereotypes promulgated by popular fiction and traditional perceptions. Ronne Hartfield's mother, fondly known as Day, was not a tragic mulatto. She knew how, as Hartfield puts it so well, to live with who she was and with who all of her people were."—Robert B. Stepto, author of Blue as the Lake

Cloth $22.50

Doing Honest Work in College

How to Prepare Citations, Avoid Plagiarism, and Achieve Real Academic Success

CHARLES LIPSON

"Has the potential to do for academic honesty what Strunk and White did for prose style. . . . Lipson's guidelines, if followed across the disciplines, would virtually guarantee that students would do work that is not just academically honest, but academically sound as well."—Bob Kaster, Department of Classics, Princeton University

Instructor's Manual
bedfordstmartins.com/phillips-film
New — available now!

The most comprehensive and accessible text of its kind, Film: An Introduction combines the universal appeal of movies with the academic rigor instructors require. It includes a wider array of films, more help for students, and a broader selection of images than any other introductory book. With up-to-date examples, over 500 images, and numerous classroom-tested learning tools and study aids, Film helps students develop the critical skills they need to analyze films and understand the medium in all its variety without overwhelming them.

ANATOMY OF FILM

Fifth Edition

Bernard F. Dick, Fairleigh Dickinson University

2005/paper/400 pages
New — available now!

Anatomy of Film is a brief, jargon-free introduction to film appreciation and analysis. Designed to be used in either English or communication departments, Anatomy of Film helps students develop a critical awareness of cinema without overwhelming them.

THE FILM EXPERIENCE An Introduction

Timothy Corrigan, University of Pennsylvania

Patricia White, Swarthmore College

2004/paper/576 pages
bedfordstmartins.com/filmexperience
Available now!

The Film Experience is the only text to combine a serious, comprehensive approach to the study of film with a practical and engaging style. This dynamic text discusses form and technique within historical and cultural context and makes the connection between how film techniques work and how they shape a film's many possible meanings. The Film Experience meets students where they are as avid movie fans and then moves them toward becoming critical viewers and writers.
