

Editorial Note

The following four articles are revised versions of papers presented at the symposium ‘Why Have a WTO? Focusing on the Welfare Effects of WTO Law’, hosted jointly by the Institute for International Business, Economics, and Law at the University of Adelaide and the Sydney Centre for International and Global Law at the University of Sydney in February 2004. All of the articles went through the World Trade Review’s standard refereeing process.

The symposium was organized by Brett Williams, Faculty of Law, University of Sydney, and Andrew Stoler, Executive Director of the IIBE&L, University of Adelaide. Information on the Sydney Centre can be found at: <http://www.law.usyd.edu.au/scigl/>. Information on the IIBE&L can be found at: <http://www.iibel.adelaide.edu.au/>.