Passing the Buck

Federalism and Canadian Environmental Policy

Kathryn Harrison

Passing the Buck examines the division of federal and provincial responsibilities for environmental policy. It challenges the assumption that federal and provincial governments seek to expand their jurisdictions and argues that the federal system has allowed the federal government to shirk its responsibilities for environmental protection by 'passing the buck' to the provinces.

Treaty Talks in British Columbia

Negotiating a Mutually Beneficial Future

Chris McKee

This book examines the long history of aboriginal land negotiations in British Columbia and discusses recent changes to federal and provincial Indian policy. It also looks at the mandate of the Treaty Commission, including the six-stage process for treaty-making, and analyzes the support for and opposition to the treaty-making process. Social Policy and Social Justice

The NDP Government in Saskatchewan during the Blakeney Years

Jim Harding, Editor

496 pp. • 0-88920-240-0 • Paper $29.95

As governments slash social welfare programs and budgets, Canada's social democracy needs to be re-evaluated. Social Policy and Social Justice examines actual outcomes of NDP policies on the poor, women, aboriginal people, farmers and labour, and raises fundamental questions about future social development and economic growth.

The Language of Canadian Politics

A Guide to Important Terms and Concepts
Revised Edition
John McMenemy

342 pp. • 0-88920-230-3 • Paper $29.95

"We all assume that we know the meaning of the words and phrases that make up our political discourse. But do we really?...This very useful book[']s utility for politicians, bureaucrats, students, and researchers [is] very high indeed. The definitions are clear and straightforward – and long enough to convey the details.... In other words, this dictionary of terms and concepts can be relied upon."

– J.L. Granatstein

"Not just a dictionary...[The Language of Canadian Politics] delves into how the terms specifically impact the politics of Canada today."

THE AMERICAN REVIEW OF CANADIAN STUDIES

THE ASSOCIATION
FOR CANADIAN STUDIES
IN THE UNITED STATES

ACSUS, a non-profit organization, encourages the study of Canada at all educational levels and in all disciplines. Through its national secretariat, ACSUS coordinates developments and activities in Canadian studies and works closely with academics, business executives, and government officials in striving for an improved understanding of issues affecting the bilateral relationship. The majority of ACSUS members are university professors engaged in research and teaching about Canada; a growing number represent the corporate sector, the legal community, and government agencies in both the United States and Canada. Institutional members include libraries, publishers, and professional groups.

A multidisciplinary quarterly journal published by the Association for Canadian Studies in the United States (ACSUS) focused on Canada, the Canadian point-of-view, and Canada's place in the world. While scholarly analysis—both interdisciplinary and disciplinary—makes up most of the Review's content, topical discussions of ongoing issues affecting Canada and Canadians are also featured. A wide-ranging selection of book-review essays, shorter book reviews, and listings of books received offers readers an overview of recent publication in Canadian studies. The American Review of Canadian Studies appeals to specialist and general reader alike, engaging Canadian concerns from an American perspective.

Leaving the Cave

Evolutionary Naturalism in Social-Scientific Thought

Pat Duffy Hutcheon

How can one explain the general failure of the social sciences to accumulate reliable knowledge?

Why have the social sciences been so vulnerable to dogma, mythology and mysticism?

The social sciences have failed us. Practitioners in the social realm (such as politicians, therapists, educators and economists) are unable to provide the answers we seek to meet the challenges of our lives and the next millennium.

In Leaving the Cave, Hutcheon explores the reasons for this failure. In this pioneering study of the development of social and biological evolutionary theory she contends that, for the first time in history, there exists a paradigm capable of integrating the life sciences and the social/behavioural sciences, a model to make effective social science a reality.

To illustrate her arguments Hutcheon traces the development of a current of thought she identifies as evolutionary naturalism. She focuses on those thinkers who have most illuminated this philosophy, from the Hellenic Greeks, through the works of the early pioneers of modern social-scientific thought, to the social theorists of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries whose ideas have been firmly rooted in the Darwinian and Pavlovian revolutions, including Dawkins, Gould and Kuhn.

Notes to Contributors / Avis aux collaborateurs

Authors are requested to forward four copies of their manuscripts together with four copies of an abstract of 100 words. Manuscripts should not be longer than 35 pages (all material included). All material, including footnotes, must be double-spaced. Tables and diagrams must be submitted on separate pages. In preparing a manuscript for consideration by the Editorial Board, authors should follow the JOURNAL's style sheet which the editors can supply. Otherwise, the most recent issue of the JOURNAL can serve as a style guide. Manuscripts will not be returned. Authors may submit the final version on MS-DOS diskette in WordPerfect, Microsoft RTF or ASCII format, along with a hard copy of the file.

Les auteurs doivent faire parvenir en quatre exemplaires leurs manuscrits ainsi que leurs résumés de 100 mots. Les manuscrits ne doivent pas dépasser 35 pages dactylographiées à double interligne (y compris les notes, les références et les tableaux). Les tableaux et les graphiques doivent être soumis sur des pages séparées. Avant de soumettre un manuscrit, les auteurs doivent s'assurer que le protocole de rédaction de la REVUE est respecté. Ce protocole peut leur être envoyé sur demande ou ils peuvent s'inspirer à cet égard du dernier numéro de la REVUE. Les manuscrits ne sont pas retournés aux auteurs. Les auteurs peuvent soumettre leur version finale sur une disquette MS-DOS, en format WordPerfect, Microsoft RTF ou ASCII, ainsi qu'une copie du texte imprimé.

The Editorial Board considers manuscripts on an exclusive basis only; that is, a manuscript submitted for consideration must not have been previously published, nor be under consideration, nor accepted for publication, elsewhere. The Board may judge manuscripts unsuitable if they are too narrow or specialized for an omnibus political science journal.

Le comité de rédaction considère que les manuscrits lui sont soumis en exclusivité; c'est-à-dire qu'un manuscrit soumis ne doit pas avoir déjà été publié, soumis ou accepté pour publication dans une autre revue. Le comité peut considérer inadmissibles des manuscrits portant sur des sujets trop spécialisés ou trop étroits.

Correspondence in English concerning manuscripts should be directed to Professor Christopher P. Manfredi, Department of Political Science, McGill University, Montréal, Québec H3A 2T7.

On doit adresser toute communication en français au sujet des manuscrits au Professeur François Rocher, Département de science politique, Carleton University, Ottawa, Ontario K1S 5B6.
