The Silent Masters

Latin Literature and Its Censors in the High Middle Ages

Peter Godman

In the tension between competing ideas of authority and the urge to literary experiment, writers of the High Middle Ages produced some of their most distinctive achievements. This book examines these themes in the high culture of Western Europe during the eleventh and twelfth centuries. With a combination of literary, philological, and historical methods, Peter Godman sets the work of major intellectuals during this period in a new light.

“This is an ambitious book about an impressive range of authors in an important period in the development of Western thought. It is full of sharp observations crisply presented.”—David Howlett

The Athenian Nation

Edward Cohen

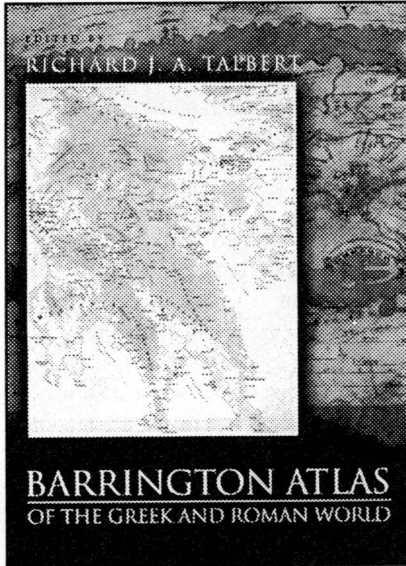

Challenging the modern assumption that ancient Athens is best understood as a polis, Edward Cohen boldly recasts our understanding of Athenian political and social life. Cohen demonstrates that ancient sources referred to Athens not only as a polis, but also as a “nation” (ethnos), and that Athens did encompass the characteristics now used to identify a “nation.”

Cohen argues that in Athens economic, religious, sexual, and social dimensions were no less significant than political and juridical considerations. He shows that the categories of “citizen” and “noncitizen” were much more fluid than is often assumed, and that some noncitizens exercised considerable power.

Special Pre-Publication Offer Barrington Atlas of the Greek and Roman World

Edited by Richard J. A. Talbert

In 99 full-color maps spread over 175 pages, the Barrington Atlas recreates the entire world of the Greeks and Romans from the British Isles to the Indian sub-continent and deep into North Africa. It spans the territory of more than 75 modern countries. Its large format (33 x 48 cm) has been custom-designed by the leading cartographic supplier MapQuest.com, Inc., and is unrivalled for range, clarity and detail.

Over 70 experts, aided by an equal number of consultants, have worked from satellite-generated aeronautical charts to return the modern landscape to its ancient appearance, and to mark ancient names and features in accordance with the most up-to-date historical scholarship and archaeological discoveries. Chronologically, the Barrington Atlas spans archaic Greece to the Late Roman Empire.

Scholars and libraries should find this essential, although it is not just for them. It is also for everyone who is fascinated with the ancient world.

"Quite simply the most important and most complicated project to be undertaken in classical studies this generation."—NEH reviewer

Mosaics of the Greek and Roman World

Katherine Dunbabin

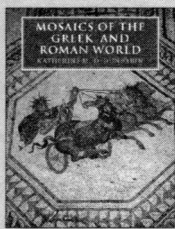

This is the first major study of the art of mosaic in antiquity.

Covering over a thousand years through an area from Britain to Syria, this book studies the technical aspects and social implications of mosaics as domestic and public decoration.

'Dunbabin's superbly illustrated survey ... is a masterpiece of visual, historical, technical and social analysis.'

Engendering Rome

Women in Latin Epic

A. M. Keith

This study examines the role of female characters in Roman epic poetry. Its five chapters argue that the feminised landscapes, militaristic women, and beautiful female corpses of the Roman epic tradition should be interpreted in conjunction with the use of the genre by ancient educators.

Slavery and the Roman Literary Imagination

William Fitzgerald

This book deals with the ways in which the Roman literary imagination explored the phenomenon of slavery. It discusses the ideological relation of Roman literature to the institution of slavery, and the ways in which slavery provided a metaphor for other relationships and experiences, and in particular for literature itself.

NEW ANCIENT HISTORY TITLES FROM OXFORD

Village Life in Ancient Egypt

Laundry Lists and Love Songs

A. G. McDOWELL

This beautifully illustrated book is the first to include translations of over 200 of the texts recovered from the workmen's village of Deir el-Medina, a uniquely rich source of information about daily life in Ancient Egypt. Each translation is introduced by a commentary that provides the context and explains the contribution the text makes to the understanding of Egyptian society in 1539-1075 BC.

NOTES TO CONTRIBUTORS

1. One hard copy of an article or shorter note will suffice at initial submission; it may be sent to either editor. Initial submission by computer disk, e-mail, or fax is not acceptable. Receipt will be acknowledged. Contributors should retain their own copy, as the editors may wish to annotate a submission and furthermore cannot take responsibility for any loss.

2. The editors' decision whether to publish a submission regularly involves the consultation of one or more referees. This process is of unpredictable length but is completed as quickly as possible; contributors should wait three to four months before enquiring.

Contributors are informed when publication is offered. An offer is sometimes dependent upon revision, and fresh hard copy will then be requested. All successful contributors are also asked to supply, if possible, a computer disk of their article or note; a printed form will request details of software used and any special features of the copy, such as drawings or plans, and a word-count; and contributors will be asked to offer an e-mail or fax address for publication.

A submission which the editors decline will be returned if possible, especially if the contributor so requests at the start.

3. Both articles and shorter notes should be typed in double spacing on A4 or US letter-size paper and on one side of the paper only. Footnotes should be numbered consecutively, and typed either as such or as endnotes on separate sheets. Greek quotations need not be typed, but every letter must be clear and legible; especial care should be taken over accents and breathings.

4. Quotations should be put in single inverted commas. A quotation within a quoted passage has double inverted commas. Short passages of Latin and other self-contained phrases (such as coup de grâce or fait accompli) should be underlined or italicized.

5. Brief text-references should normally be given in the main text, but lists of references and bibliographical details in the footnotes, in the following form:

BOOKS

R. Syme, The Roman Revolution (Oxford, 1939), 78–9.

E. Norden, *Die antike Kunstprosa*² 1.164–81.

Fraenkel on Agamemnon 1314 (pp. 611–13).

Authors' initials should be stated, at least at their first mention. Abbreviations may be assigned to books that will be generally familiar (e.g. *OCD*³, LSJ, CHCL, FGrH, IG, RE omitting full points). 'Op. cit.' should be avoided; instead write (e.g.) 'Vlastos (n. 9), 245ff.' or '. . . (n. 9) at 249'; alternatively works repeatedly cited may be listed at the beginning or end of the article, and names (with dates or short titles, if necessary) used in the notes.

ARTICLES

R. P. Winnington-Ingram, 'The Danaid trilogy', JHS 81 (1961), 141–52, at 143 or '. . . (1961), 143'.

T. C. W. Stinton, "'Si credere dignum est": some expressions of disbelief in Euripides and others', in id., Collected Papers on Greek Tragedy (Oxford, 1985), 236–64.

Both year and volume number (in Arabic numerals) should be given.

Abbreviations may follow the style of Marouzeau's L'Année philologique.

ANCIENT AUTHORITIES

Aristophanes, Birds 135; Homer, Od. 1.1 (not α 1); Lucr. De Rerum Nat. 1.47, Cic. Phil. 2.20 (not 2.8 or 2.8.20); Plin. N.H. 9.176 (not 9.83.176 or 9.83); Quint. 10.1.46; Soph. O.C. 225 (retain full points; do not use I. or II., but, where necessary, line or lines).

B.C. (or B.C.E.) should appear after, A.D. (or C.E.) before, the number of the year. Write 'nineteenth century' rather than '19th Century'. The following should not be italicized: loc. cit., cf., ibid., s.v.

6. It is a condition of publication in the Journal that authors assign copyright to Oxford University Press. This ensures that requests from third parties to reproduce articles are handled efficiently and consistently and will also allow the article to be as widely disseminated as possible. In assigning copyright, authors may use their own materials in other publications provided that the Journal is acknowledged as the original place of publication, and Oxford University Press is notified in writing and in advance.

THE CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION

The main aims of the Classical Association are to promote and sustain interest in classical studies, to maintain their rightful position in universities and schools, and to give scholars and teachers opportunities of meeting and discussing their problems. It organizes an annual conference, lasting four or five days, in a university centre, and sponsors twenty-nine branches, most of which hold Greek and Latin Reading Competitions for Schools. Its activities are fully reported in its annual Proceedings, issued free to all members.

The present membership of the Association is approximately 4,400. Membership is open to both individuals and to institutions at an annual subscription of £5.00 (life composition for individual members, £105.00). Members may obtain The Classical Review, The Classical Quarterly, and Greece & Rome at greatly reduced prices. Application for membership should be addressed to the Hon. Treasurer, c/o The Classical Association, School of Advanced Studies, University of London, Senate House, Malet Street, London WC1E 7HU.
