The Moro Morality Play

Terrorism as Social Drama

ROBIN ERICA WAGNER-PACIFICI

On March 16, 1978, the former Prime Minister of Italy, Aldo Moro, was kidnapped by the Red Brigades, and what followed – the 55 days of captivity that culminated in Moro's murder – constitutes one of the most striking social dramas of the twentieth century. Wagner-Pacifici's compelling study of terrorism provides a dramaturgic analysis of the Moro affair as a method for discussing the culture of politics in Italy.

Why We Lost the ERA

JANE J. MANSBRIDGE

America's Equal Rights Amendment passed Congress with an overwhelming majority in 1972. During the following ten years, the public repeatedly endorsed it in opinion surveys. Yet, for all the favour it enjoyed in the abstract, the ERA was never able to muster concrete support in enough states to become the law of the land. In this provocative and controversial book Jane Mansbridge explains why.

A History of Electoral Socialism

ADAM PRZEWORSKI & JOHN SPRAGUE

By analysing the history of electoral socialism from 1890 to the present in Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Norway and Sweden, the authors explain why no political party offering a socialist transformation of society has ever won an electoral majority.

First World Nationalisms

Class and Ethnic Politics in Northern Ireland and Quebec

KATHERINE O'SULLIVAN SEE

First World Nationalisms is a major study of the origin, development and dynamics of ethnic separatist movements, using two richly textured case studies of Northern Ireland and Quebec. The author offers an illuminating historical analysis and theoretical interpretation that goes beyond the previous explanations of ethno-nationalism.

Public Opinion and Collective Action

The Boston School Desegregation Conflict

D. GARTH TAYLOR

In this study of Boston's protracted conflict over court-ordered busing in the mid-1970s, D. Garth Taylor explains the dynamics of public opinion and the causes of collective action in racial politics. Taylor effectively challenges the established view that racism was the only driving force behind the anti-busing protest.

Closed Borders

The Contemporary Assault on Freedom of Movement

Alan Dowty

In this eloquent and informative book, Alan Dowty makes a strong case for unrestricted emigration and immigration by tracing how different countries throughout history have dealt with movements in and out of their borders, exploring why governments resort to restrictive measures, and describing the effects these policies have had. £16.95

The Politics of Public Management

Philip B. Heymann

How do political appointees chosen to head government agencies deal with the powerful political forces that surround them? In this book a professor of law who has held numerous management positions in the U.S. government, draws on his own experience and that of other government officials in order to explore the political context of high-level management. £22.00

American States of Mind

Political Beliefs and Behaviour among Private and Public Workers

Craig Reinerman

The product of extensive interviews with a group of American citizens over a five-year period, this book reveals that political attitudes are not strictly a function of one's place in society but are the result of a complex interaction of biography and history in which work, family and culture combine to form ideological affinities. £25.00

T. H. Green: Lectures on the Principles of Political Obligation and Other Writings

Edited by PAUL HARRIS and JOHN MORROW

'This book is a very welcome addition to the growing body of literature on the British Idealists... The editors provide a concise and helpful introduction to some of the main themes in Green's thought as well as a sizeable body of notes for more detailed reference ... this will become a major text for scholarly reference to Green, as well as valuable sourcebook for students of political thought.'

"This book will be a significant contribution to debates on the crucially important topic of plant gene banks in international agriculture and national development. The authors are in a central position for the day-to-day overview of the issues."

—H. Garrison Wilkes, University of Massachusetts, Boston

Gene Banks and the World's Food

Donald L. Plucknett, Nigel J.H. Smith, J.T. Williams, and N.M. Anishetty

By the year 2000, according to current estimates, the world will require an agricultural production 60 percent greater than 1980's harvest. Looking to this not-so-distant future, four experts urgently point out that we must not take our supply of seeds and other planting material for granted: in the midst of growing public expectations of achievements in genetic engineering, options for the future are being circumscribed by the erosion of one of the world's most important heritages, the genetic diversity of our crop plants and their wild relatives.

Notes for Contributors

1 All contributions should be sent to: The Editor, British Journal of Political Science, University of Essex, Wivenhoe Park, Colchester, Essex CO4 3SQ. They should not be sent to the Cambridge University Press.

2 Articles submitted to the Journal should in general be between 5,000 and 12,000 words (or equivalent in tables and figures) in length. An abstract not exceeding 120 words is required.

3 Notes and Comments are welcome. A Note should contain a body of original information, a new method for doing something or a new idea (speculation, argument, proof, etc.) presented in a brief and unadorned form without inessential commentary. Comments containing criticisms of articles published in the Journal and additional thoughts on them will be considered for early publication, especially if they are short – say, under 1,000 words.

4 Most issues of the Journal contain a Review Article – either a detailed discussion of a single book or a review of the state of some area of the discipline. Review Articles submitted without prior consultation will be considered for publication, but in their own interest contributors would be well advised not to prepare a Review Article specially for the Journal without first getting in touch with the Review Articles Editor.

5 Contributors should note the Journal's editorial policy, which is as stated inside the front cover.

6 Authors of articles and Review Articles receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be bought if they are ordered at proof stage.

7 Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not been previously published and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. In the interest of authors, copyright is normally assigned to the Cambridge University Press.

8 Contributions intended for publication should be submitted IN TRIPLICATE. Contributions must be typed and may be reproduced in any clearly legible form. The preferred size of paper is A4 ( $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11\frac{1}{2}$  in), but quarto ( $8 \times 10$  in) or the US standard size ( $8\frac{1}{2} \times 11$  in) will also be accepted. Because of postage costs, manuscripts not accepted for publication are not normally returned to the author unless their return is specifically requested.

9 The entire material of any article, including footnotes, quotations, appendices, etc., should be double spaced, with left-hand margins of at least  $1\frac{1}{2}$  in. The preferred treatment of footnotes is that they should be numbered consecutively in the text and typed all together at the end, beginning on a fresh page.

10 Anyone who is preparing a manuscript for submission to the Journal is urged to follow the Journal's style sheet, which covers a number of detailed points concerning footnotes, punctuation, spelling, etc. Copies of the style sheet can be obtained from the Editor. Footnote references should always contain, in the case of books, the name of the author as it appears on the title page, the full title including any subtitle, the place of publication, the name of the publisher and the date of publication, and, in the case of articles, the name of the author, the full title, the name of the journal, the volume number, the year and the page reference (number of first and last page).

11 First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by air mail where appropriate, within ten days of receiving them. The master proof will always be sent directly to the Editor by the printer; contributors will receive duplicates.
