Communism in Czechoslovakia, 1948-1960

By EDWARD TABORSKY

Czechoslovakia, once considered Central Europe's model democracy, has been a Soviet satellite since 1948. The Communists now boast that "socialism" has defeated capitalism politically and has surpassed it in production, in living standards, and in social justice. How realistic is this picture of conditions in a country once oriented to the West? This question is the focus of Professor Taborsky's book. In attempting to answer it, the author first reviews the history of the Communist Party's rise to power and then examines in detail the economic, social, political, and cultural programs of their twelve-year regime, comparing stated plans with actual results through 1960. His final assessment of the Party's successes and failures measures both effort and result against the human cost.

Lord and Peasant in Russia from the Ninth to the Nineteenth Century

By JEROME BLUM

The author illuminates ten centuries of Russian history, from the rise of the Kievan Princes, through the years of Tatar domination and the rise of the Great Russian Empire, to the abolition of serfdom in 1861. He describes the rise of the seigniorial class and the gradual subjugation of the serfs and shows how the Dukes of Muscovy rose to the absolute monarchy of the tsardom. He also discusses the agricultural, commercial, and industrial activities of the serfs and their masters, and explains how political, humanitarian, and economic considerations eroded the foundations of Russian serfdom and caused its ultimate collapse.
